Cadets observe Annual Inspection

Reviewing officer Mayor Koslo, of CFB Namag, officiated at the annual inspection of 533 squadron, Air Cadets, held at the St. Albert community hall, May 27. Major Koslo addressed the 65 member squadron and the many parents and guests who were present for the evening.

Floyd Terriff, treasurer of the provincial committee, Air Cadet League of Canada, also spoke.

A number of trophies and perfect attendance pins were presented to deserving cadets. Many had one - five years perfect attendance.

Two cadets are recipients of scholarships. Warren Eschak will attend a five - six week course at the Edmonton Flying Club this summer. This will give him his private pilot's licence.

C. Regimbald was awarded the bandsman's scholarship, an eight week course at CFB Penhold.

A lunch was served by the Lady Lions to conclude the evening.

Frontier Daze-Citizen of Year

A Citizen of the Year award will be made again this year in Morinville. The Frontier Daze committee, in announcing this event said the Morinville Lions Club will sponsor the award and donate the trophy. The trophy will be presented to the citizen, chosen by ballot, on the basis of service to the community without thought of personal gain.

This will be the fourth year a citizen of the year will be chosen. Honored in previous years are: Reverend Father G. Primeau, 1968; Art Stapleton, 1969 and Pete Gibeault, 1970. Last year marked the first time the Citizen of the Year was elected by popular ballot. The Frontier Daze committee expects this method of selection to be continued, thus giving more people a chance for nomination and election.

Nomination papers will be available on June 14 and can be filed at the church, Royal Bank and Credit Union.

Nominees and voters must be 18 years of age or over and nominees should be active in youth, recreation, town and community services.

Voting will take place on June 14 - 18 at the Royal Bank and the Morinville Credit Union.

Dr. Timothy C. Byrne, president of Athabasca University will be guest speaker at the June 8 dinner meeting of the St. Albert and District Chamber of Commerce. The general public is invited to attend this meeting, which will be held at the Club Mocmo, 6:30 p.m. Tickets at Emery's Pipe Shop.

Saturday Ball

The Morinville recreation centre will be the scene of the second annual Blossom Ball, sponsored by the Sturgeon General Hospital auxiliary.

The banquet, at which Winifred Stewart will be guest speaker, gets underway at 6:30 and dancing starts at 9 p.m.

Dress is optional and tickets are available from Mary Campbell at 599-7346 or Jean Varner, 599-7060. Last year's ball was a huge success and indications are that patrons will once again be treated to a gala evening.

City assures town of adequate water

Mayor Gibbon, Councillor de Bruijn and Town Engineer Jan Maandag met with Commissioner Stan Hampton and Messrs. Phil Walker and Cec. Monaghan last Thursday on the matter of water delivery to St. Albert.

They were assured that in future delivery will be maintained at an adequate and safe level. The 48 inch line leading to Rosslyn Reservoir from Rosslyn flats has been connected and the reservoir level raised. In addition the city is setting a new pressure monitor in the reservoir and changing over to a free-flow meter which will help control the pressure loss between the Edmonton and St. Albert side of the reservoir.

Water pressure has increased from 10 pounds per square inch Friday to 25 over the weekend and was at 45 Monday on the Edmonton side. This enables the St. Albert pumps to move up to about 60 pounds per square inch and the town was pumping 800 gallons per minute on Monday.

It appears clear from the discussions that the problem of water service is one of delivery from Edmonton, and not any deficiency in the town's facilities.

The city is confident that a minimum pressure of 35 pounds can be maintained on the Edmonton side of the reservoir, which will be adequate for St. Albert for some time to come. The ultimate solution will be a second water line from the university.

St. Albert Rodeo coming

St. Albert Rodeo 110 is definitely on this year. The town will be filled with whooping cowboys when the St. Albert Kinsmen present their rip-roaring extravaganza on June 18, 19 and 20.

The midway opens at 5:30 Friday, and rodeo goes will have three opportunities to see North-America's top cowboys in action. The one hundred or so cowboys will be competing in six events Saturday afternoon and evening and again Sunday afternoon.

Cowboys will be competing in six events, included in which are steer wrestling, Brahma Bull riding and bare-back bronco riding.

A giant parade will be held Saturday morning and the Kinsmen have many fine entries lined up for this event. Preceding the parade will be the popular street breakfast, sponsored by the Grandin Shoppers Park Merchants Association.

A new attraction has been added this year when for the first time a sky jumping demonstration will be held. The arena, too, will be a busy place. Dances will be held there both Friday and Saturday evenings.

proceeds to Unger School

The hundred or so patrons who attended the IODE cheese tasting party, held May 19 at the St. Albert parish hall had a most enjoyable evening, visiting with friends and tasting the wide variety of cheeses and refreshments offered. At the same time, they helped the local chapter of the IODE in their support of the Evelyn Unger school.

A variety of entertainment was featured throughout the evening. Judy Wyker of the St. Albert greenhouse demonstrated flower arranging, Wayne Wyker commented.

Beverly Smith, of Edmonton, presented several popular vocal selections and a group of young dancers from the St. Albert chapter of dancing entertained as well. Sherry Miller, Kim Martin, Colleen Kelly and Cindy Forcand were very well received by the crowd.

A number of door prizes were drawn for. Jean Garland won the flower arrangement, Jenny Saurhof, Beverly Smith and I. Bullcock won a wine-pack each and the Hole vegetable farm donated five trays of bedding plants.

Proceeds of the evening were donated to the Evelyn Unger school at the school's annual tea and bazaar, held at Strathearn United Church, Edmonton, May 28.

Colleen Kelly and Bill Gowans, along with some other 150 students and guests, enjoyed the farewell dance, staged by Paul Kane high school at the Edmonton Inn last Saturday. The school will hold its graduation exercises in October. Photo by Vic Post.

Potash slump ending

Although the potash market hasn't grown as fast as insiders thought it would producers are smiling a little more these days. They're selling more potash than they did last year -- and at better prices. The industry is now forecasting sales for 1971 at $140 million vs $116.4 million in 1970 and $69.4 million in 1969.

Living high off the hog!

USING ELECTRICITY TO INCREASE YOUR PROFIT is today's brightest idea! Electricity reduces costs in materials handling, labor, and feed processing, and produces environmental controls that encourage better production. Heat is important, and maintaining the ideal temperature in your barn is easy. Floor heating cable and infra-red heaters mean controlled heat where you want it. Mechanical feeders triggered by time switches cut labor costs; manure disposal working on a liquid manure pump system also saves time and money -- and solves an age-old cleaning problem! Ventilation, lighting and mechanized materials handling -- all running smoothly on electricity -- can cut your production costs -- and get you living 'high off the hog'! # Schools to stagger hours

The board of trustees, St. Albert Public school district, meeting in regular session May 17 established the following school hours: elementary - 8:35 to 2:55; junior high - 8:50 to 3:10 and senior high - 9:10 - 3:30. Hours to commence in September, 1971. It was noted that staggered hours would allow the school buses to make multiple trips, thereby reducing the number of units required.

Trustees studied at length the wording of a drug policy for the district. Superintendent Vince Maloney read a letter from the district's legal counsel governing the legal responsibilities of the board in this matter. Mr.

Maloney presented a re-draft of the policy which incorporates the suggested changes to the board at its meeting last Monday evening.

Mr. Maloney told trustees that at present alcohol is a worse problem at the schools than are drugs.

The drug policy, in addition to outlining the steps to be taken when persons are found to be distributing drugs, are in possession of drugs or suspected of drug use, outlines a drug education program to be developed by each school.

Trustees received a report of damage done to the Albert Lacombe school. Mr. Hule reported a number of windows had been broken.

The matter is now in the hands of the RCMP. The parents of the person or persons responsible are to assume responsibility for the damage.

Final Kinstakes winners declared

The Association of Kinsmen clubs in Alberta conducted its final Kinstake lottery draws last week. The draws were made by Don Sinclair, immediate past governor of the association, district four, under the supervision of the Canada Trust Company in Edmonton.

Toppy money of $25,000 went to Karen McKinnon, of Whitemcort, an Edmonton woman, Mrs. W. C. Glenn was awarded second prize of $10,000 and richer by $5,000 is Bern Mosa, of Red Deer.

Speaking on behalf of the association, Kinstake lottery chairman Bill Hite indicated that the lottery which has been termed a tremendous success has seen in excess of $145,000 returned to the 52 participating Kinsmen clubs in Alberta and other supporting agencies.

Proceeds designated to Kinsmen clubs have been pledged to community service projects.

Adopt a grand-parent plan

An Edmonton student's idea of helping the elderly through an "adopt-a-grandparent" plan has been given the go-ahead with a grant of $15,300 from the Federal Government's Opportunities for Youth program.

Wayne Neilson, a student at the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology, proposed the project -- one which he and 16 other students will undertake during the summer. Their concern for the elderly in the city, particularly for those who live alone or are without close relatives, has been growing since they began field work in their course in social services.

They hope to extend the service to all parts of the city, beginning by getting lists of names through senior citizens' homes, part of the plan includes interesting high school students in taking part on a voluntary basis.

They hope the summer will be just a beginning and that "adopt-a-grandparent" will become a continuing program.

Bikes - Locks and Lights?

The St. Albert RCMP are being flooded with reports of bicycle thefts. The office advises that all cyclists should make certain their bikes are never left unlocked.

Some stolen bikes eventually find their way to the police office and a spokesman said bikes could be returned to their rightful owners much more quickly if a record of the serial number was kept.

The police are receiving many reports of cyclists riding after dark without proper lights on their bikes. There have been a number of near misses and cyclists are reminded that in a collision with an automobile they are usually on the losing end.

Part 6 of Bylaw 85 reads "One hour after sunset a light and reflector are required." The police asks the co-operation of all parents to make sure their children's bikes are properly equipped if they are being used after dark.

the Gazette REFLECTS

Reflecting on the yearly groans of the citizens when mill rates are announced by municipal governments, it might be well to take a hard look at what we are complaining about.

As is to be expected education will take the lion's share. On an average assessed homeowner in St. Albert $311 out of a total of $532 will go for educational purposes. With a population of 4,000 children between ages 5 - 19, out of a total of 11,250 it would be fair to consider the average homeowner has two children in school. Thus he pays about $155 per child for 10 months of schooling, or $13 per month per child.

According to recent statistics on sales of alcoholic beverages the amount per month spent on booze, by the same average homeowner, is greatly in excess of $13.

$17 per month goes for municipal services on the same basis and $2 per month for health and hospital services. In St. Albert residents may be getting better value for $17 per month spent for engineering, parks and recreation, police and fire protection, snow clearing and street maintenance, garbage disposal and town administration, than they do for many other areas of their spending.

In other words we are in fact getting good value for our taxation dollar at the municipal level. Also at the municipal level taxpayers are in a position to see where their dollars are going, and to assess the performance of their elected representatives and town staff.

At the provincial and federal levels it is a different story. During the sixties, and it may be worse in the seventies, the insidious creeping spread of bureaucracy is leaving a trail of waste and inefficiency which is placing a near-impossible burden on the taxpayer. And at these levels of government it is much more difficult for the individual to do anything about it.

Chicken and egg war may wreck marketing

The Supreme Court next week begins hearing a case vital to Canadian agriculture. At issue is the most vicious interprovincial trade war of modern times in Canada, the so-called chicken-and-egg war. The case also bears on the future of the farm products marketing legislation that has been before the House of Commons since March, 1970. The Financial Post says the Supreme Court case has been initiated deliberately by Manitoba, which wants to force a resolution of the chicken-and-egg war. Most other provinces will also present arguments on one or the other side of the issue. The chicken-and-egg war erupted a year ago when Manitoba and Ontario began shipping surplus eggs to Quebec, depressing Montreal egg prices to levels not remunerative to Quebec egg producers. Quebec retaliated by shipping its surplus broiler chickens west. The highly efficient Quebec broiler industry was marketing the birds in Ontario, for example, below the general cost of production in that province. At the same time, Quebec set up a marketing board to distribute all eggs in the province. This virtually shut the market there to eggs from out of the province, Ontario did the same for broilers, and other western provinces chimed in with similar acts against out-of-province broilers. In the most recent escalation, earlier this month, Ontario was trying to prevent Eastern Ontario stores from selling Quebec broilers. And Quebec gave its marketing agency potential power to control imports of all farm products into the province. The constitutional legality of these moves is questionable. This is the point Manitoba wants to clear up in the Supreme Court.

Hilarious musical "Cabaret" - opening in Edmonton

Producer Ken Graham of St. Albert announces the opening of "Cabaret," an outstanding Broadway hit of the late sixties on June 12 in Edmonton.

Prestige Productions, a small group of Edmontonians interested in promoting musical theatre, are presenting the show, under the direction of Jack McCreath. Phil Silver has designed an ingenious series of sets, using both revolves of the Citadel stage.

The musical opened on Broadway in November, 1966, and ran for over three years. It was a sensation in London and toured for two seasons on the road. It made a star of Joel Gray and such hit songs as "Cabaret" and "Wilkommen became popular standards.

"Cabaret" had its origin in the Berlin Stories of Christopher Isherwood, who wrote stories about the characters he met while living in Berlin in the years when it was a gay, mad, demoralized town just ripe for the beginnings of Nazism.

His stories were converted into a play in the 1950's called "I Am A Camera," which made a star of Julie Harris, and this play was used as the base for the hit musical. The music is set against the jaunty, glittering carefree world of the Kit Kat Klub, and also the more realistic dramatic world of Fraulein Schneider's roominghouse.

Wallstreet Journal said, "Cabaret is one of the most exciting, imaginative, and effective musicals to come to Broadway this year or any other."

Jack McCreath is delighted to say that he feels he has cast every role with a deadringer for the part. Heading the cast will be Joe Vassos as Cliff Bradshaw, the hero of the musical, whose story this is; Barbara Reese plays Fraulein Schneider, a shrewd lady determined to survive. Gayle Roberts plays Sally Bowles, the heroine of the show and star of the Kit Kat Klub, whose approach to living is, to say the least, different. Leroy Schultz will play, strangely enough, Herr Schultz. The key role of the master of ceremonies will be played by Lloyd Nicholson.

Choreography is in the hands of newcomer Sharon Friedler of Chicago and Richard Silver from Edmonton.

Joe Vassos has just played the lead in the last play of the Citadel season, and Barbara Reese comes directly from the female lead in the last play of the Waltherdale season.

"Cabaret" is one of the most delightful toe-tapping dramatic, and at the same time, hilarious musicals ever to be produced here. The box office is open at the Citadel and all seats are $3.50. The musical will open on Saturday, June 12, and through Sunday, June 27, 1971.

Tennis

The Instructional classes sponsored by the Tennis Club in co-operation with the Department of Parks and Recreation will be over in another week or so and more time will be available for public playing. In answer to the many enquiries, the club regrets that it will not be possible to hold further sessions of lessons.

On June 12 and 13 the club will be holding an invitational tournament. The deadline for the receipt of entries is June 10 and those interested in entering should phone Frank Carnahan -- 599-8385, Dave Kirk 599-7602 or Fred Rudolph 599-7812.

Two preschoolers passed the Pyramids while touring the Middle East. "Wow!" said one. "Think of the pledges it took to build them?"

Health Unit Seeks volunteer help

The Board of Health of the Sturgeon Health Unit has launched a campaign to recruit volunteer workers, in a move to meet the ever-increasing demands for its services.

Since posting a newsletter in various clinics last week, five have already come forward. First was St. Albert's George Hamilton, who keeps the community free of bottles in his daily rounds. One retired nurse and one ex public health unit nurse, and two housewives have also volunteered.

Nursing or other professional experience, while valuable, is not necessary. Desirable qualifications are quickness to learn, an interest in children, a pleasant manner and reliability.

Lay volunteers will be recruited on a local basis to work in close association with the public health nurse for that area. At least one volunteer is needed for each rural community where a clinic is held; in the urban areas one volunteer is needed for each group of schools (elementary plus junior high).

Volunteers will be provided with a nylon uniform and badge. Training will be under the supervision of the public health nurse and the duties expected will be to act as receptionist in the clinics, weighing and measuring babies and filling records; and in the schools, helping the nurse to check hearing and vision.

by Hennie Stibbe.

PEOPLE AND WHAT THEY DO

R.M. Gibbon - Mayor

He chairs all meetings of the town council, sits as a member on the finance and public works committees and is an ex-officio member (and as such attends as many meetings as is possible) of all boards and committees council sets up during the course of a year. At present these include the library board, arena board, parks and recreation committee, preventive social services committee, Edmonton Regional Planning Commission, negotiating committee, Emergency Measures Organization and any other special committee that comes along.

He is also on the executive of the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association and serves on that body's insurance committee, is a trustee of the Alberta Blue Cross, sits on the committee that takes recommendations of the AUMA to the government and is a member of the Alberta Snowmobile advisory committee.

This man, of course, is Ray Gibbon, mayor of the Town of St. Albert.

How does he manage it? "It helps to have an understanding family," he says. And in this time of walk, skate- and bike-a-thons, shoot-outs, calf ropings and what have you, it also helps to have a good sense of humour and be in fair physical condition.

In addition to the aforementioned functions, the mayor is invited to, and expected to attend, a good many banquets, balls, teas and annual get-togethers of various organizations, sports, youth and service groups.

Imbursed for all normal expenses incurred while carrying out his duties as mayor. These would include mileage, meals and accommodation while on out of town conferences. Anything out of the ordinary has to have council's approval.

"The time I spend in the town hall is minute compared to what is done meeting various and sundry people outside this building," Mr. Gibbon said. The mayor is in his office in the Civic Centre several hours each day and on weekends spends between three - six hours at his desk preparing for Monday's council or committee meeting.

Mornings will usually find him "working for a living" as senior representative, Sun Life Assurance. But even then his downtown Edmonton office will receive many calls related to his mayor-ship.

What affect has his being mayor had on his private business? "Well, we have had to let the insurance business go by the boards a bit," he admits. Mr. Gibbon on's business has seen a sizeable decrease in the past three years. "But we fully expected this to happen. We knew what we were getting into," he said.

Mr. Gibbon is fortunate in that his private business is such that it allows him to spend the amount of time he feels is required on town affairs. "A person who has to be at his job from 9 - 5, five days a week, just could not hack it," he says. Such a person would have to make a choice: mayor or business. "The time element is such that you can never really count on running your private business in a business-like manner."

Mr. Gibbon sees no immediate need for a full-time mayor for the town. "I can't visualize a full-time mayor, presumably at salary twice what we are now being paid, being considered at this time," he said. "A mayor's duties are well defined under the Municipal Government Act. The extra money required for a full-time mayor, elected every three years, would be much more effective to the Town of St. Albert if it was spent on additional appointed executive administrative staff."

Mr. Gibbon was a town councillor for three years before being elected mayor in October, 1968. He describes himself as a "nut for financial control" and says he can see the day when the municipal tax dollar will be used in its entirety providing services for the town and not with a large portion going to paying off debenture debts. He and Dan O'Connell, secretary-treasurer, have been working on this for a number of years now. The mayor has nothing but praise for town-hall staff. "The rapport is excellent and we work together well," he said.

Has the Gibbon's family life seen a change because the head of the household is also chief official of the town? "Well, you sort of have to work these things in," Mr. Gibbon answered. The phone at the Gibbon residence rings steadily. "We get a lot of calls at the house throughout the day and evening," he said. And weekends, when the town hall phone goes unanswered, the natural thing for many people to do is call the mayor at home. "Very few calls are obnoxious. It is mostly people who want information or who feel they have a legitimate beef," The mayor and Mrs. Gibbon have not had a real holiday since he took office.

"It's not always this hectic," Mr. Gibbon says, as his ringing phone interrupts the interview again. "But spring time is building time and this involves a lot of time spent with developers and their lawyers, and, of course, council is right in the middle of budget study. But it will taper off."

Sorry, but time is up. Mayor Gibbon is off to a meeting with a developer, but before he drives back into the city for that, he has to call a man who is having trouble with his sewer and someone else has a complaint and asked to speak with the mayor. He also must acknowledge an invitation to speak at a dinner and he'd better call Eileen to see if there are any messages at the house.....

to the editor

The Editor:
The students and teaching staff of the St. Albert High School responsible for planning the graduation ceremonies in honor of the 1971 graduates are to be commended for their fine effort.

The students who will be graduating are facing a challenging world. It is a very complex, highly specialized world. It is a world of rapid change and one that will test the very utmost of each graduate's ability and creativity. To each of the graduates, a most sincere wish that the future will be truly meaningful and rewarding in every way possible.

"Good luck grads!"

Sylvia Walsh,
(Trustee, St. Albert School Board #3)

All Saints and Sinners are invited to participate in this grand finale to a very successful season.

RECREATION

SWIMMING POOL:

The June schedule which was published in the issue of the Gazette dated May 19 is now in operation. It is subject to adjustment depending on programming and attendance. Sessions for teens (14 and over) are being held on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings and for adults on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Family sessions are being introduced at week-ends during June; sessions during the week will be added to the schedule in July and August.

The first session of Red Cross classes is underway. In spite of the additional classes scheduled, many children and young people were: unable to register. Those disappointed are reminded that classes will be held in July and August and registration will take place towards the end of June. Registrations are now being taken at the pool for skin and scuba diving. If enough people are interested a class will be arranged.

SWIM CLUB:

A well attended parents' meeting, chaired by Dick Fowler, was held in the Clubhouse on Monday last. The new executive for the coming season was elected with Peter Sandomirsky as president.

Try outs for the swim team were held last week and a training camp is at present in progress which will last till June 11. This explains why many young St. Albertans are getting to the pool at 6 o'clock these mornings. (Who says the young are getting "soft"?).

SQUARE DANCING:

The St. Albert Saints and Sinners will hold their last dance of the season on June 5, in Sir Alexander MacKenzie School. It will have an Olde English theme and for lunch, fish and chips will be served.

A highlight of the evening is bound to be the performance of "Hamlet" which is at present in rehearsal. There appears to be some doubt about whether Shakespe-peare would recognize the version which is being produced on Saturday but there is no doubt that it will be quite hilarious.

Health Unit Annual Report

Methods of integrating preventive health with other health and social services are an important aspect of long range planning by the Sturgeon Health Unit.

In his annual report to the board, Dr. James Howell, medical officer of health expressed his view that the best solution for the southern half of the area will be to re-locate the main office adjacent to the Sturgeon General Hospital, so that joint use of facilities could be arranged and joint services planned. The unit serves an area stretching from north and east of Swan Hills south through Ft. Assiniboine, Barrhead, Westlock, MD Sturgeon and St. Albert and Thorsild country. Total population served is 56,585.

Dr. Howell's report pointed out some of the newer hazards occupying the attention of public health people, hazards posed by drugs, snowmobiles, micro-radiation, addition sources of noise and changes in sexual mores. The health unit had also experienced a return of "some of our old enemies, not quite forgotten, the infectious diseases." Figures show 205 cases of measles reported in 1970, as against none in 1969, and 49 of Rubella, up from 22 last year.

The unit also had one case of tetanus reported, the first in Alberta for seven years, which almost cost the patient's life. The report points out the need for more public awareness of the danger of any wound, particularly a small puncture wound, being contaminated with manure or soil. They should know that this serious disease is almost totally preventable by routine immunization over five years. "Every adult needs this and other forms of immunization - neglect is folly; every child has the right to it - neglect is 'unjust'."

A report on the first 500 children examined in the screening clinic for four year olds established in 1969. Speech, hearing, vision, general development, vocabulary and behaviour were checked under the program, done at this age for early detection of any problems which could hinder normal progress in school.

Dr. L. D. Nobert, dental health officer reported on a sample study on patients in an auxiliary hospital and a nursing home in the health unit area. It showed that 88 per cent of the patients had lost all their natural teeth, and that the majority had unsatisfactory function with their artificial teeth. His report also emphasized the need for fluoridation education and programs and the work done in this area in 1970. "A survey of school dental charts conducted at the request of the town of Morinville, revealed that children who were born and raised on fluoridated water in St. Albert had over two-thirds less tooth decay than the children in the same age group drinking Morinville town water, which is not yet fluoridated."

Activities in public health inspector Ken McAmmond's department centred around pollution control, improvement of restaurants and better milk and water. Complaints were handled on stream pollution from dead animals, refuse and municipal wastes, and on air and noise pollution. A requested survey of the Sturgeon revealed a "couple of outstanding problems" but people are slow at rectifying the situation without a great deal of work by the unit staff. Mr. McAmmond stated that restaurants have generally improved over the year in the area served by Sturgeon Health Unit, and that following pressure by medical officers of health and public health inspectors, new finished product milk standards have been established by the provincial government.

During 1970 the public health inspectors instituted monthly meetings with colleagues from neighboring health units, attended in-service training and a convention, to keep up with recent advances in their field.

St. Albert protestant kindergarten ends year

Dressed in white gowns and mortar boards, and singing "Kindergarten has been great, now it's time to graduate," the students of the St. Albert protestant kindergarten and nursery school ended their activities for the year with graduation exercises on the morning of May 28. The youngsters presented a short program for the parents who could attend.

It has been a busy year for the approximately 40 students of the school. They recently toured Storyland Valley Zoo and on May 27 a general birthday party was held for all children whose birthdays fall during the summer.

Other highlights during the year included a Christmas program and Easter Parade.

Auction winds up Lions club project

St. Albert arena was a busy place Saturday, as an estimated 500 or more residents took in the Breakfast Lions auction, bidding on tricycles, lawn mowers, washing machines, stoves, a variety of household furnishings and so on. Joe Garber is seen in Lions jacket, centre, with auctioneer Larry Shantz at his left (under the big hat), while television sets are under the hammer.

The culmination of the spring inventory clean-up campaign, spearheaded by the St. Albert Lions Breakfast Club, came on Saturday, with the giant "White Elephant" auction in the arena.

Lion President John Huberdeau reports that the entire campaign was a marked success. Firstly through the participation of club members in the cubs and scouts paper and bottle drive, which was well supported, and secondly in the acquisition of the many useful articles which were sold at the auction.

These netted a tidy profit to be used for Lions Club service activities, such as the Community Band and their continuing work with St. Albert's senior citizens.

Mr. Huberdeau said the club was most fortunate in having the services of auctioneers Larry Shantz, Firman Iseke and Lou Leclair who volunteered their services and did a terrific job. While he commended all club members for getting behind the project, he made special mention of Ed Dunkin, Neil Klein and Doug Wilson, for their many hours of work, ably assisted by Shirley Dunkin and Irma Wilson. The town and the Chamber of Commerce added their backing to the campaign as well, and together with the excellent response of the public the clean-up campaign was an all around community effort, which the Lions consider well worth the time and work put into it by their members.

Class of '71 largest to graduate from St. Albert High

By Laura Finkbeiner

Father Ducheneau's choir made the folk mass what the grads considered the best one yet. The choir also did a marvellous job during exercises. The graduation class was the largest recorded by St. Albert High School.

Ross Johnston opened the exercises with personal congratulations to the graduates on their many accomplishments in the past three years. The grads of '71 represent the first group of students to complete their high school program on the semester system.

Mayor Ray Gibbon represented the Town of St. Albert and impressed upon the graduates the importance of the new legislation regarding the age of majority and counselled the young men and women to use the new freedom with responsibility.

Vincent Maloney expressed his pride on being a part of the education system in St. Albert, which takes second place to no other area. He encouraged the graduates to take their place in society whether now or after further education. Don Labella conveyed congratulations to the graduates on behalf of the school board for St. Albert Public School Division No. 3.

The class history was presented by Leonie Gibeau, an informative and delightful resume of the past 12 years. On a more serious note -- Dawn Brennels, the class valedictorian expressed the mixed emotions of joy and regret at leaving memories behind her of the good times at St. Albert High School.

A total of about 300 people attended the banquet and dance.

St. Albert High

Saturday, May 29, about 40 Indian students from North Battleford, Saskatchewan, were guests of the Holiday Community Volunteers.

Preceding the dance held to welcome these students, a group discussion took place. Local students were able to find out about the reservation and the people on it.

On Sunday the visitors toured the Planetarium.

TENNIS

Again this year St. Albert High defeated Paul Kane in the annual high school tennis tournament. This is the fourth consecutive year St. Albert High has captured this trophy. Team members are: Roberta Parsons, Linda Waunch, Sheila Dalphond, Martine Journoud, Don Kennedy, Anders Udsen, Mike Bourgeois, and Doug Reinhold.

TRACK AND FIELD

Last weekend a number of students travelled to Sherwood Park to compete in the Zone Competitions. Denis Gravelle, Letitia Sopchuk, Linda McGillis, and Susan Hoffart will compete in the Provincial Meet this weekend in Edmonton.

Charles, the minister's son was so naughty the day before the church picnic that his mother imposed the severest punishment she could think of--keeping Charles home from the picnic. The next morning she relented and told him he could go to the picnic after all. To her amazement Charles received the news glumly.

"Why, what's the matter Charles?" she asked, "don't you want to go to the picnic?"

"It's too late now," replied her son bitterly, "I've already prayed for rain."

COLOR EXTENSION PHONES DO A LOT FOR A LITTLE

Demand liberation from housewife's clump.

You know how it is. You're upstairs and the phone rings. And it's clump, clump, clump down every step. Well tell your husband (or husband-to-be) about it. But don't stop there. Protest.

Ask him where he'd be without the privacy an extension phone gives him at work. Then tell him you'd like some privacy too. Remind him that a home extension phone gives everyone "their own private corner of the world".

If he doesn't listen, if he doesn't promise to get you a colorful, color extension phone, for as little as $1.25 a month, threaten to learn Karate.

Medicare for cattle

Manitoba's one million head of cattle are to enjoy better medicare. The provincial government decided recently to set up 32 regional veterinary clinics throughout the province by 1975. Hogs and poultry also qualify for the new service. The new scheme works this way: Municipalities are allowed to group together to form a veterinary-services district. The Manitoba government underwrites the capital costs of the clinical laboratory facilities, offers matching grants to the municipalities to operate them, and gives incentives for veterinarians.

There has never been more color, much of it two-tone, in footwear for men, according to The Financial Post Magazine. Blue and gray for instance. And on to white, bone, red, green and gold. For summer, white is regarded as basic this year, followed by black and white combinations of the 1930s. The laced shoe with big eyelets is back for a whole generation of youngsters.

Fashion gimmicks are fading

The midl didn't make it. Hot pants will likely cool off. Not every woman will wear the mini; and everybody's closet is pants-suit crammed. What, then is going to lure women back into stores this fall? Put the question to 10 retailers and you'll get 10 different answers. Some say they'll be pushing minis. Others say the big item will be knee-length dresses. One reason for the diverging opinions is the painful experience of a year ago, when women surprised the fashion industry by rejecting the midl. Re-tallers and manufacturers who assumed customers would go along with the industry's dictates suffered severe set-backs. While recognizing that some demand will continue for some "fad-ish" items as hot pants, most big retailers this time are protecting themselves by carrying a wide assortment of lines. Where they differ, one from another, is in their betting on which styles and length of garments will move best.

Use a qualified appraiser

The growing complexity of appraising property, coupled with new approaches to assessment, have focused increasing attention on qualified real estate appraisers. Robert Catherwood discusses the subject in the concluding article in The Financial Post series on the risks and rewards in real estate investment. All articles, together with additional material, are being reprinted in book form. The new book, 'Real Estate for Profit' is scheduled to be available in June, orders are being accepted now at $3 per copy. Write to: The Financial Post, 481 University Ave., Toronto 101.

Steel orders come in faster

The pace of steel ordering is picking up again, W. L. Dack says in The Financial Post. And there is every indication that Canadian steel mills will be busy through the second and third quarters. But, Dack points out, ominous price weakness in international markets and uncertainty over the threatened U.S. steel strike this summer are clouding prospects for the latter part of the year. After a slower first quarter - due partly to mill maintenance cutbacks - in which production was down nine per cent from same period a year ago, the order books are starting to fill and delivery lead times are lengthening.

Although the turn round is not startling, the improvement is noticeable and accelerating. The demand is improving across a broad product range.

Morinville

Pat Krauskopf and Marianne Kramps hosted a small dinner party at the Morinville Hotel recently in honor of Mrs. Carl Hanson who will join her husband at an Edmonton lodge for senior citizens after 16 years of residence in Morinville. Mrs. Hanson was presented with a tiered cake plate and farewell gifts from her friends.

Oil to U.S.

There are strong prospects that Canadian oil will have effective "full and unimpeded access" to U.S. markets by 1972. Negotiations towards such an arrangement have been quietly under way for some months. Although several hurdles remain to be overcome, there is no reason to believe at this point that they are insurmountable.

Ammonia Mishaps in agriculture

--Issued from D.A. office

If you intend to use an ammonia fertilizer this spring, be sure you take the recommended precautions against injury, advises Wes Glenn, agricultural engineer with the Alberta extension service.

Although the hazards of ammonia are well known to industry, they are still relatively unknown to the farmer. Ammonia fertilizer possesses the potential for serious injury, and a mishap can cause the victim great pain and even rob him of his eyesight.

Statistics show that accidents with ammonia fertilizers occur most frequently when the material is being transferred from one tank to another. Fertilizers with ammonia require special equipment and handling techniques all the way from the production plant to a farmer's applicator tank.

Mr. Glenn strongly recommends that farmers wear goggles when transferring an ammonia fertilizer from one tank to another, and that they always have a container of clean water nearby in case of an accident. Water is the best immediate antidote against an eye irritation or a skin burn, he says. Never attempt to adjust or tighten a coupling on a hose until you have turned off the pump. Even when the pump has been turned off, pressure can build up in a hose and cause an accident.

Following are three typical accidents with ammonia fertilizers that were reported in the March issue of the American magazine "Agricultural Engineering".

A farm boy, applying aqua ammonia fertilizer for a commercial company, started transferring the material from the nurse tank to the applicator tank, after having installed a new pump. He started tightening the hose without shutting off the pump. The opposite end of the hose slipped out of the applicator tank and sprayed him with several gallons of aqua ammonia. He washed his eyes and face with his emergency container of water and then ran 70 yards to a nearby creek where he immersed himself. He was treated at a local hospital and sustained no eye injury.

Another farmer was transferring aqua ammonia to his applicator tank when a hose between the PTO pump and the applicator regulator became unclamped. It whipped around and sprayed the farmer on the left side of his face. It took him half an hour to walk to his farmyard where he washed his face and eyes with water. While he had some minor skin burns, the greatest damage was to his left eye. A year after the accident, he had only light perception vision in this eye.

An employee of an anhydrous ammonia distributing company was injured while transferring the liquid from a rail car to a nurse tank. In this case the safety release valve suddenly emitted a spray of ammonia. The employee was sprayed on the face and chest. He immediately washed his face in water and was taken to hospital. His facial burns were not serious and both eyes were unaffected, but pulmonary edema and pneumonia resulted from his having inhaled the ammonia fumes. He also developed inflammation and edema of the upper respiratory tract. However, after 11 days of intensive treatment in hospital, he was discharged with no residual lung damage.

While the concentration of ammonia determines the immediate effects of exposure to it, Mr. Glenn points out that it is the duration of the exposure that is the key factor in both acute and chronic problems.

Market Information

Current marketing and outlook information is available to farmers in the "Alberta Farm Economist" and the "Alberta Farm Market Analysis." These publications are quarterly and monthly issues respectively and they release information on markets, trends, outlooks, etc., and analyzes the latest information on the subjects covered and forecasts expected, future marketings and prices.

These two "papers" are recommended to farmers and should assist greatly in his management and business.

Contact the District Agriculturist, Wally Klatt, at Morinville, phone 256-3351, if you want copies to be sent to your farm.

There's plenty of money around. The trouble is, everybody owes it to everybody else.

Livestock Brand Inspection Act passed

The Livestock Brand Inspection Act was passed by the Alberta Legislature last week to provide the department means of obtaining records of all branded cattle and horses that are sold, slaughtered or shipped out of the province. It comes into force on Sept. 1, 1971 and will replace the Stock Inspection Act which is no longer adequate to deal with Alberta's rapidly expanding cattle industry.

The new act states that anybody moving cattle or horses by truck, or on foot, to a community pasture, forest reserve, feedlot or any type of market must provide his brand inspector with a manifest, describing the animals. A manifest is a document similar to a bill of lading, presently being used by public service vehicles. The information contained in the manifest will be used by the department of agriculture in their computerized record keeping system, designed to facilitate the immediate retrieval of brand and sale data. These manifests will be supplied, free of charge, to all livestock producers by the department.

The Livestock Brand Inspection Act also states that all cattle and horses being shipped out of the province must have their brands read before they are loaded. This provision will enable the department to keep a record of animals that have been exported, and is designed to protect Alberta farmers and ranchers against theft. Previously, both cattle and horses could be shipped to, or through, Winnipeg without any brand inspection before they left.

Any cattle moved from a farm or ranch to a custom feedlot must now have their brands inspected upon their arrival at the feedlot. Implementation of this provision was made necessary by the large number of cattle which now go directly to a commercial feedlot without passing through a market.

Another provision of the new act makes it mandatory for anyone who has stray cattle or horses on his premises to notify the brand owner, or the brand inspector, or to impound the animals within a seven day period. A person who fails to comply with this provision of the act is subject to a fine upon conviction. Under the pound laws in this province it is not compulsory to impound a stray animal.

The present act also states that anybody who buys or sells cattle or horses must do so under his own name. There has been an increasing number of people in recent years selling liveducers can claim for ten dollars per acre for 25 acres or over on a net increase in forage.

a) There are no restrictions on the use of the nurse crop; it could be harvested for grain, threshed for feed or baled, depending on what the producer wishes to use the nurse crop for.

b) The producer will make the decision as to the entries to be made in his 1971-72 permit book. For the purpose of the Grassland Incentive Program, payments will be calculated on the basis of the acreages in the producer's 1970-71 permit book when compared to the acreages from his Grassland Incentive Program claim. The 1971-72 permit book will have no effect on the Grassland Incentive Program.

c) Where the producer completes a Cultivated Acreage Report under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, the 1971-72 permit book will be used to verify the 1971-72 acreages on the producer's application for Prairie Farm Assistance.

For application forms or more information on the above, contact Wally Klatt, District Agriculturist at Morinville - 256-3351.

stock under a fictitious name. Since all sales from now on will be recorded by the department of agriculture's computer retrieval program, it is essential that correct names be used.

The new act states that anybody slaughtering cattle or horses for resale must have a building in which to do the slaughtering before he is eligible for a license. This provision is intended to ensure that the animals are killed in one central location to facilitate future inspection of animals at slaughtering establishments. Previously, they could be killed on the premises of the vendor.

Livestockmen who sell cattle or horses that are branded with brands that are not their own registered brand must now make sure that the brand is plainly visible to the inspector prior to shipment. This provision is intended to help speed up the brand inspection service as the animals go from one market to another. Failure to comply with this provision will result in a double inspection fee.

Federal Forage Program

The following will help to clarify the subject program whereby farmer/producers can claim for ten dollars per acre for 25 acres or over on a net increase in forage.

a) There are no restrictions on the use of the nurse crop; it could be harvested for grain, threshed for feed or baled, depending on what the producer wishes to use the nurse crop for.

b) The producer will make the decision as to the entries to be made in his 1971-72 permit book. c) Where the producer completes a Cultivated Acreage Report under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, the 1971-72 permit book will be used to verify the 1971-72 acreages on the producer's application for Prairie Farm Assistance.

200 Cubs take part in district rally

The annual Cub rally was held Sunday at Sir Alexander Mackenzie school grounds with almost 200 cubs taking part. The cubs were representatives of the 10 packs in St. Albert and two in Morinville.

Program consisted of 22 events in which cubs competed. These events were widely varied, a few examples being boot and shoe race, sack race, bean bag toss, crab race, nail driving etcetera.

After completing all the events the cubs returned to their groups for a wiener and ice cream supper.

The final event of the rally was a campfire sing-song, which was admirably led by Mr. Tom White. The sing-song was interrupted for a few moments for District Commissioner Ted Langford to award Mrs. Lena Keith, Akela of 1st Morinville, the Leo Nickerson trophy for being the winning cub pack of the rally.

For next year's rally there will be nine hungry cub packs looking to get that trophy back.
